JURY IS GIVEN PORTER FATE IN BELTON AT 9 P. M.

ARGUMENTS BY BOTH SIDES TOOK UP ENTIRE COURT SESSION YESTERDAY.

JUDGE SPANN TELLS JURY WHAT RETURN MAY BE

JURY CAN SAY GUILTY IN FIRST DEGREE, PRISONER CAN GET TERM OR ACQUITTAL.

By Anne Austin.

Belton, July 5.—Willie Porter's fate is in the hands of the jury tonight. Judge Spann turned the case over to the twelve men who will decide whether Porter should be hung as the coldblooded assassin of Emma Staley or should go free as the innocent victim of circumstance that brought suspicion upon him.

The courthouse at Belton was wrapped in tense quiet when Judge Spann at 9 p. m. instructed the jury and ordered a vote.

The instructions leave room for first degree murder, life imprisonment, or imprisonment from 5 to 99 years or acquittal.

Many spectators talked of the possibility of a hung jury.

Hair in Brilliant Plea.
Attorney Will Hair, closed for the defense in what will be considered one of the best murder cases resumes in the history of Bell county.

Hair declared that there were two distinct theories explaining the death of Emma Staley other than the case of murder by Willie Porter as set up by the state. He declared the girl may have committed suicide in a fit of despondency, but laid particular stress on what he termed the probability of murder by another person who used an automobile mentioned by several witnesses as a vehicle for carrying the girl to the Leon river bridge where the tragedy occurred. Hair became specific in mentioning a Bell county citizen other than Willie Porter as a probable murderer and declared the positive statement of Willie Porter's wife that Porter was with her the entire evening of March 12 as positive proof that Porter is innocent.

Ridicules Porter.
Prosecuting Attorney Martin White ridiculed Porter as a "Willie-boy," declaring he never could be known by any other name than Willie. He said a jury could reasonably expect that a man's wife would go to any length to save him from the shadow of the gallows.

In a closing appeal White said: "I charge you twelve men not to compromise your consciences by sending this man to prison for a term of years, the man who did this thing should hang."

Porter sat dry-eyed through the denunciation of White and through the dramatic appeal for his liberty made by Hair. Porter's girl bride remained calm also.

A court room is not a pretty sight at any time during a trial and especially during a trial when a man's life is the thing with which each side plays.

It is an ugly thing to be called up before a crowd of people and asked to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help you God, even if you have no other intention. During this trial, I have seen young men with clean young faces called before the court, their slightest word questioned inexorably. Having never given thought to comparative distances, they are asked to estimate all sorts of measures, to fix dates, and it is small wonder that they go wild on details. They share a bit in the shame of the whole thing, in the stigma of the crime, just by being hauled up before hard-voiced lawyers who will trap them into damaging admissions at the slightest opportunity.

Strain Tells on Porter.
And all the time the prisoner looks on and looks and looks. Day after day he wears out under the strain. Whether Willie Porter be guilty or innocent, his cheeks are now sunken, have become ghastly white. His eyes with much staring and questioning and probing into the eyes of the witnesses, of the lawyers have become fixed and hollow.

To me, in this case of the State versus Willie Porter, the most tragic figure of all is the seventeen-year-old bride. Her health is evidently delicate. One of the counsel for the defense told me that she had wept constantly for the first month and a half succeeding the arrest. He was her first sweetheart. The courtship was a short and ardent one, from all accounts. His good looks and prepossessing manner won him his suit with the girl to whom he had taken a fancy, whom he would make his wife after all the vicissitudes of illicit love.

As the story books say, "and so they were married." She knew nothing of his relations with poor Emma Staley. According to her own testimony, she found a letter from the unfortunate girl to her husband, written previous to her marriage, telling plain things of her condition and of her hopes of relief.

That must have been a bitter moment for the young girl. But she took it as best she could and went on her way, a loving and beloved wife. Even if her husband is acquitted, the nasty array

FELIX JONES DENIES HE MADE CONFESSION IN BROWN KILLING

According to word received by Waco authorities, Felix R. Jones of Ft. Worth, Texas, who is being held here in connection with the killing of Thomas Lyons of New Mexico, denied late today that he had made a confession admitting he had a part in the killing of Florence Brown of Dallas. Sheriff Seth Orndorf received a message from Dallas officials asking if Jones had confessed as reported.

"I did not make any confession because I have nothing to confess," Jones said. "I did not kill the girl and know nothing about the case." Jones wants to face the Dallas charge immediately, said his attorneys who returned this morning from El Paso. "Jones can prove by many Abilene people that he was not in Dallas either the morning Florence Brown was slain or for several days previous to that," the lawyers announced this morning. The El Paso murder trial will not be called before November.

GIRL SUSTAINS PAINFUL INJURIES FROM AUTOIST

Miss Josephine Smith was painfully injured late yesterday afternoon as she was returning home from her work when walking south on Fifth street at Speight she was struck by an automobile. She had just hurried to escape being run down by another car when a second machine struck her, throwing her against a curb.

A physician was called and it was found that two ribs were broken, her jaw bone fractured and head cut. However, it is thought that her injuries are not serious.

She was carried to the residence of Mrs. J. I. Fagan, her sister, with whom she lives on South 5th street. Miss Smith is employed in the office of Albert C. Johnston, attorney, in the Praetorian building.

WACO NAVY OFFICE HEADS GET RECOGNITION

The Waco recruiting station will be kept open for another six months anyway, and will be in charge of Recruiting Officer J. R. Hair, according to instructions just received from headquarters.

Recruiting Officer Hair's time here has been extended from August 30 to February 29 next. This is the second extension of time for Officer Hair, which is very rare.

A promotion also has come for Officer Updegraff, who was called to Dallas for examination and for raising to the office of chief gunner's mate. If the examination proves satisfactory, as it is thought that it will, then the promotion will be realized.

PIG DISTRIBUTION SATURDAY A WEEK

Secretary H. D. Driscoll of the Chamber of Commerce is actively planning for another distribution of pigs for the boys and girls of McLennan county who want to buy them on the usual liberal terms.

This next distribution will take place Saturday week, and considerable interest is felt in the matter, though not quite as much as usual, on account of the high price of feed. Secretary Driscoll also wants to get in touch with persons having porkers to sell, so that the boys and girls will be certain to have all the pigs they need.

13 SUFFRAGISTS FACING TRIALS IN WASHINGTON

WOMEN ACT AS OWN COUNSEL IN CHARGES OF RECENT DEMONSTRATION.

QUOTE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE IN TRIAL

COURT TELLS ONE WOMAN SHE DOES WHOLE LOT BETTER THAN LAWYER.

By Associated Press.
Washington, July 5.—Thirteen women suffragists, put on trial in police court here today on charges of disorderly conduct and unlawful assembly as a result of their demonstration before the white house yesterday, protested they were celebrating the Fourth of July peacefully and patriotically when stopped by the police. The trial will be resumed tomorrow.

The women were released tonight, upon their recognizance. Acting as their own counsel, the women exhibited in court the banner carried in the demonstration bearing a quotation from the Declaration of Independence and cited it as proof of their patriotic intentions.

Policemen called to testify were cross-examined riddily by Mrs. Helena Hill Weed, one of the defendants. Once during this procedure Mrs. Weed addressed Police Judge Mulloony, saying:

"I am not a lawyer and am not certain as to what I may properly say. 'You are doing a whole lot better than most lawyers,' encouraged the court."

Miss Lucy Burns, another defendant, also acted as counsel. The women pleaded not guilty and demanded separate trials, but this was refused to all except Miss Hazel Hunkins, who declared she did not carry a banner yesterday. All the women had spent last night in the house of detention.

ROTARIAN FILMS FOUND SAYS WORD FROM HOUSTON

Local Rotarians, especially those who attended the recent convention at Atlanta, may not yet be disappointed in failure to see films of the big meeting. Club secretaries the past few days have received circulars from Tom Phillips of Chicago, asking their aid in helping to find the Atlanta convention films which had mysteriously disappeared. Bob Cornell has just notified Tom that they have turned up down at Houston. It seems that in the post convention rush Tom's movies in some way got packed up with some of the things belonging to the Houston delegation.

RECALLS ONE JULY FOURTH WHEN NO RAIN FELL

When discussion turned on the number of times rain has fallen on July 4 during past years, this discussion being in McGregor Thursday, F. Witte, Confederate veteran, said that he distinctly remembered one July 4 when rain did not fall.

"This was on July 4, 1863, at Vicksburg, Miss.," said Mr. Witte. "This was the day of the surrender of Vicksburg, when Grant and Pemberton met under the red oak tree and talked together. Oh, yes, I remember that Fourth of July mighty well, and it didn't rain that day, but the eyes of some of the men were moist just the same."

Aged Woman Wins in Battle With Snake Goes to House, Tells Story, Then Dies

Recent visitors in Waco from Coryell county tell of a desperate battle between an elderly woman and a large rattlesnake in that vicinity which has attracted the attention of two counties, the encounter taking place one day the past week on the Connette ranch on the line of Coryell and Hamilton counties.

An old German lady, Mrs. Swasby, had left the house and gone out to cut some cane, taking with her to do the work a small hand axe, and while busily engaged at her work she encountered the huge rattler which, without giving the regulation rattler warning, struck her on the arm. Realizing that the bite was fatal the lady who is said to have been about 70 years of age, struck back with the axe and it was then the death struggle began.

So fierce and terrific was the battle that the ground had the appearance of having been fought over by two human beings. The huge snake would strike and the brave and courageous old lady would wield her axe with deadly effect, finally succeeding in killing the reptile by chopping the head from the body. She then returned to the house and told of the struggle and where they would find the dead snake, and a few hours later she breathed her last. It is said the snake's head measured three inches across the top and that he had fourteen rattles. The old lady succeeded in cutting him into three pieces before she abandoned the fight.

County Attorney Allen claims the couple has been selling liquor illegally for the past year.

NAB COATES IN FAULK MURDER AT FT. WORTH

IS NOT CHARGED WITH CRIME BUT MAY KNOW OF GIRL'S WHEREABOUTS.

Special To The News.

Fort Worth, July 5.—Constable Tol Johnson left Monday night for Spokane, Wash., to bring back to Fort Worth Elmer Coates, located there this week, who it is thought may be able to clear up the mystery surrounding the death of Miss Zella Faulk, who was brutally and foully murdered near West Oakwood cemetery, June 3. Constable Johnson traced Coates through Oklahoma and other states after his sudden and mysterious disappearance from this city on the day the body of the 19-year-old girl was found. The young man, who is alleged to have been the last person seen with the girl before her death, will be brought to Fort Worth next week by the constable.

At one time Coates was located near Oklahoma City, but before authorities could definitely locate him he had left Oklahoma for Washington. He stayed several days at the farm of his brother near Oklahoma City, it was later learned. Police have been co-operating with Constable Johnson in raking the country in which Coates was seen several times. Another boy who left Fort Worth with Coates has been found at Spokane and will also be returned to Fort Worth.

Information concerning the fact that Coates was wanted here to help solve the mystery of the murder was sent to all recruiting officers in this part of the country as authorities thought he might try to enlist in some branch of the national service.

Coates, who is 19 years old, lived, prior to the murder, with his father, T. W. Coates at 2611 Chestnut avenue, North Side. According to Mrs. Mollie Faulk, Coates and Miss Faulk had been going together for some time when Coates suddenly disappeared.

The case is one of the most perplexing and mysterious on local records. The body of the assassin's victim was found at 11 o'clock on the morning of June 4, by J. C. Horn, 1205 Lagonda avenue, who was searching for some boy's camp in the woods near the cemetery when he stumbled on the form of the murdered girl.

The throat had been slashed with a pocket knife, from evidence obtainable.

WILL BE BIG RUSH PLANTING FEED CROPS

Following the benefits of the rains, farmers in this section will begin planting feed crops just as fast as they can get into the fields, and many already had planted their feed in the dead. Those who had already planted have just that much advantage, but it is considered that there is plenty of time for feed crops to be planted and to mature before cold weather comes. The cotton crops are all clean and farmers will have thus a chance to get in their other crops as soon as the ground is dry enough on top to allow their horses and mules to move about.

MEXICO SAID TO WANT WAR WITH GERMANY

REPORTS FROM COUNTRY TELL OF GROWING PRO-ALLY SENTIMENT RECENTLY.

OUTSTANDS GERMAN PLOTS TO BUILD UP CONSPIRACY

INFLUENTIAL MEXICANS DEMAND JOINING OF FORCES WITH THE ENTENTE.

By Associated Press.

El Paso, July 5.—Since the pro-ally campaign in Mexico first started by El Universal in Mexico City, the sentiment favoring the allies has reached northern Mexico and during the last thirty days a well defined movement favoring an open break with Germany and the alignment of Mexico on the side of the entente allies has developed. This has been in spite of the pro-German sentiments published daily in Chihuahua City and in other papers believed to be subsidized by the Germans in the north.

A reflection of this sentiment was seen recently in the statement by Gen. Francisco Gonzales, acting commander-in-chief of the northeastern military zone, with headquarters in Chihuahua. He was overcharged by the German firm of Ketselsen & Degetau for some padlocks. The manager was arrested and placed in the penitentiary. The German consul made a demand for his release "in the name of the Imperial German government and the Kaiser," according to a Mexican official who was present at the time.

"Tell the German consul he, the Imperial German government and the Kaiser may all go to hell," General Gonzales answered.

Leaders Urge Action.
Prominent Mexicans, men in close touch with the capital, predict Mexico will declare war on Germany within thirty days. According to these men, all German money in Mexico City, Torreon, Chihuahua City and other banks will be seized as soon as war is declared. The German boats in Tampico and other ports will be seized, thereby giving Mexico a much needed merchant fleet, and all Germans will either be interned or deported, at once, their properties being confiscated. The Tampico oil fields will be made safe for the oil supply of the allied fleets by declaring a zone in which traffic would be restricted and the mines, smelters and mills reopened at once to produce munitions for the allies.

"But we can make Mexico safe for the allied nations and for their properties. We can show our sympathy with the same cause for which we have been fighting for the past six years by aiding the allies in every way, even though we are unable to assist materially in the war."

The good effect of such a declaration on the relations of Mexico and the United States especially along the border was pointed out. It would mean close co-operation with American officers in stopping the wholesale traffic in ammunition, cattle smuggling, gun running and all of the other violations of law along the border.

The anti-German sentiment is not unopposed in the north as the German residents of Chihuahua City, Torreon and other places have been spending money lavishly on entertainment officials, army officers and influential citizens. But with the usual German method, they seem to have overplayed the hand and brought about a reaction by causing the naturally suspicious Mexicans to suspect they had an ulterior motive in their friendship.

Give Sixty Days.
Americans returning from Mexico City say sixty days will elapse before Mexico declares war against Germany.

They say the German sentiment there is exaggerated and that the great mass of Mexican citizens are in sincere sympathy with the allies. They say also the part General Obregon played in the pro-German agitation was exaggerated, as they claim his name was used by the Germans to lend dignity to the pro-German movement and they say the former German minister is a friend of the Mexicans and allies.

There is no doubt the Germans have been using every possible effort to create general sentiment in Mexico and since the pro-ally movement was started to counteract the effects of this movement as it gained popularity. But, like the pro-German propaganda in the United States, the Germans were apparently acting without taking into consideration the racial traits and temperament of the Mexican people, who are as much opposed to the Pan-German scheme of things as are the Americans.

HAMPTON ROADS IS GIVEN SUBMARINE SCARE LAST NIGHT

By Associated Press.
Fort Monroe, Va., July 5.—Hampton Roads was given a real submarine scare tonight by a report brought to the commandant of Fort Monroe that two incoming vessels had sighted a periscope in Chesapeake bay five miles off the fort.

Immediate precautions were taken and late tonight naval vessels still were scouring the lower bay seeking an enemy.

Merchant vessels about to sail were held up and the Washington and Baltimore steamers were escorted from the Roads and part of their way up the bay by warships.

PREPARING TO KEEP SOLDIERS ON BORDER

That arrangements evidently are being made for keeping a large number of soldiers in the Rio Grande section is the view of B. H. Hill Jr., who is just up from his place at Farr near the border.

Mr. Hill states that permanent barracks are being built, and every indication is that the government is preparing to settle down to keeping soldiers in that part of the state.

Regarding crop conditions, Mr. Hill says that a good corn crop already has been made, and that cotton picking will be in swing by July 20. Corn is bringing a good price, and at Mercedes milling corn is selling for $1.50 a bushel, he states.

MORE ORDERS PLACED BENEFIT OF FARMERS

Additional orders were placed on Thursday by the Chamber of Commerce for milo maize seed and June corn.

Big orders had been placed the day before and the seed had come, but owing to the rain Wednesday there was great demand Thursday, causing the agricultural committee chairman, W. W. Woodson, to conclude that it would be best to order more seed, which Secretary Driscoll did. As many as eight men were in the Chamber of Commerce building at one time Thursday after the feed seed, which is being sold at actual cost.

HUTTO MADE SPLENDID CONTRIBUTION, RED CROSS

The little town of Hutto in Williamson county is another place which made a splendid contribution to the Red Cross fund, according to advices received by Dr. H. C. Black of Waco.

This little town raised $2,000, which is a notable contribution for a town no larger. One or two members of the faculty of the State university delivered addresses at Hutto during the campaign for funds, aiding materially in the gratifying total reached.

ANOTHER RECRUIT IF WAR LASTS LONG ENOUGH—NEFF

If the war lasts long enough Waco will have another recruit for the anti-Kaiser host. So say Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Neff, 2018 Sanger avenue, in announcing the arrival of Roy, Jr., July 4th.

"He's as lively as the fourth," says Neff, "and has already declared his independence."

Mother and Roy, Jr., are both doing well.

WAR WALL IS TIGHTENING ON GERMAN EMPIRE

RUSS HOLD GAINS WHILE ALLIES SPEED ACTIVITIES ELSEWHERE.

BRITISH AND FRENCH IN ADVANCES ON WEST FRONT

ITALIANS APPEAR HOLDING THEIR OWN AGAINST MACEDONIAN LINE.

With the Russians holding their gains in Galicia against Austro-German attacks, the indications of stronger activity in the other war theatres are multiplying.

On the western front the British have advanced and the French artillery is active from north of the Aisne to the Meuse. The artillery activity has increased on the entire Austro-Italian front; there has been greater local activity in Rumania and on the Macedonian front. The Germans have the offensive on a small sector. Around Brzezany and near Lipnicadolina on the Narayuvka north of Brzezany the Austro-Germans have attacked the Russians in attempts to regain the territory lost early in the week. Their efforts against Russian advanced posts east of Brzezany were checked by the Russian artillery fire and two attacks near Lipnicadolina were broken up.

In Rumania.
Further south along the Hungarian-Rumanian border and in Rumania, where there has been no violent fighting since the cessation of Field Marshal Von Mackensen's drive last fall, greater activity is reported. There have been reports recently that the Rumanian army, re-equipped and reformed, was ready to assume the offensive and it is probable they are to follow in the path of their Russian neighbors.

In an attack against the German lines southwest of Hollebeke in Flanders along the pres canal and on the northern end of the recent British advance against the Messines ridge, Field Marshal Haig's troops have driven the Germans back on a front of 600 yards. Major General Maurice of the British army declared Thursday that the British army in France had not lost a gun since April, 1915, and that since the beginning of the war the British had captured 559 guns and lost only 133, of which thirty-seven were recaptured.

Crown Prince Defeated.
The German crown prince has not repeated his attacks in Champagne and the French still cling to the predominating positions on the front. Meanwhile, the artilleries are engaged violently from northeast of Soissons to near Verdun.

Two strong enemy columns have attacked the right wing of the Italian army in Macedonia. These efforts, Paris reports, were repulsed. On this front as well as on the Austro-Italian front, the artilleries have been busy.

WILL WARN AUTOISTS BEFORE TAKING ACTION

An official warning will be issued to citizens that the auto parking and muffler ordinance are to be enforced in Waco, and then general and consistent enforcement will be commenced, according to action taken by the city commission Thursday.

Recorder R. H. Kingsbury appeared and asked that due publication be made in the newspapers, officially, warning the people, so that they be not taken by surprise. Action looking to impartial and general enforcement of the ordinances was taken a week or two ago.

WACO STOOD AT TOP IN THE NAVY RECRUITING

Waco's last navy recruiting report placed her at the top of the column in the entire district, which is a very large one.

This fine report showed ninety applicants and thirty enlistments. The next place to Waco was Abilene, which fell ten men under the Waco report. The report for this week also will be a good one, showing sixty-five applicants and thirty-five men sent to Dallas for examination.

BIDS HAVE BEEN ASKED AUSTIN STREET PAVING

Bids for paving Austin avenue from the bridge about Twenty-second street, to the city limits at Twenty-eighth street, will be opened next Thursday, and the paving of that thoroughfare on to the city limits with permanent material is to be undertaken in a short time.

Thursday was the date set for protests against the paving of the street, but no one appeared to protest, and the matter was thus advanced to the stage of asking for bids.

MELON CROP NOW 35 PER CENT IS YIELD'S REPORT

Although watermelons have been moving in Texas in carlots since June 18, shipments are reported by railroad officials and receivers as rather light compared with other years, averaging around 25 cars per day. The demand continued active and the market generally strong. All sales thus far have been f. o. b. track, with prices the fore part of the week about as follows: Tom Watson in bulk 20 to 22 pound averages $250@260. One car averaging 25 pounds is reported to have sold for $220. Large averages thus far have been scarce owing to drought. Some rain fell here last week but not enough to do much good as the ground was very dry.

As matters stand, growers do not believe the crop will exceed 35 per cent and it was predicted that unless a heavy rain fell this week it might be out to 35 per cent.

Because of an alleged shortage of cars, railroads centering in the melon district have demanded five tiers of melons per car under 25 pound averages and two bales of hay bedding hereafter, buyers, it was said, having agreed to pay in proportion to the number of melons.

TEXAS TOMATO CROP WILL BE LESS THAN FIRST EXPECTED

Local shippers say the movement of tomatoes was a little less active this week and likewise the demand, probably due to the wide range in quality. Dry weather was reported cutting short the crop the fore part of the week, and causing the tomatoes to run smaller than usual. Shipments, however, were liberal and the market strong. Under the system of inspection large quantities of undersize tomatoes, which would have been marketed under normal conditions, were being thrown into the discard or else shipped out by express to bring what they might. Up to the close of last week 592 cars had been shipped, with the shipments this week in the neighborhood of 100 cars per day.

Prices so far have been up well, the best ever experienced in the history of the industry.

REALTY DEALS DIDN'T SUFFER BY WAR'S CALL

VOLUME OF BUSINESS IN WACO SHOWS UNUSUAL GROWTH DURING SIX MONTHS.

Interesting facts are disclosed by the records of the Dilworth Abstract company with regard to the volume of business in real estate and the effect that the declaration of war with Germany has had upon the local real estate market.

The actual consideration for real estate transfers in McLennan county for the year ending July 1, 1917, amounted to over $8,100,000—to be exact, $8,104,561.28.

During the first six months of this period, usually the heaviest trading months of the year, and before our declaration of war with Germany, the amount of the real estate transfers was $3,631,360.22 and during the last six months or during the period in which the country was thrown into fever heat of excitement by our declaration of war with Germany, the real estate transfers in McLennan county went over the $4,000,000 mark, to-wit, $4,473,141.07.

WHEN IS A DRIVER NOT A CHAUFFEUR?

The question of when is a chauffeur not a chauffeur has been answered by the attorney general's department in a recent interpretation of the state highway commission's new ruling. Many of Waco's automobile owners who have drivers will be interested in the interpretation of the new law.

The attorney general's department in an opinion to the state highway commission—construing section 25, chapter 207, acts of the regular session of the Thirty-fifth legislature, defining who are chauffeurs within the meaning of the act, imposing a license tax, holds that it is applicable only to those persons who are engaged in driving or operating motor vehicles for wages or salary in the employ of another, or those who operate for hire for the transportation of persons or property in their own motor vehicles, or vehicles under their control. One, however, who engages in the activities of a chauffeur casually or as an incident to any employment or one who does not make a living principally by driving or operating a motor vehicle, should not be classed as pursuing the business or occupation of a chauffeur, within the meaning of this law.

LEMLEY AGAIN IN COURT HERE OVER LICENSE

FOR NINTH TIME WACO MAN FACES ACTION IN COUNTY COURT ROOM.

For the ninth time Dr. Charles C. Lemley faces a McLennan county jury. So far his records show seven acquittals and one conviction. On each occasion he has been charged with violation of the law concerning the practice of medicine without recording a license.

Thursday was taken up with testimony from witnesses and cross examination, both sides putting a number of witnesses on the stand.

The court room was filled most of the time during the day, women and children predominating. Many objections in examination were made to the judge by both the state and the council for the doctor, the judge sustaining some and overruling others. Fines were assessed by Judge Alexander twice during the day, a five dollar fine going to Attorney Pat M. Neff for asking the witness questions already overruled by the chair and a fine of ten dollars being given to Dr. Lemley when he argued about a question asked him by the state relative to the location of a certain bone in the body.

Mrs. Lane Called.
Mrs. Lane testified as to Dr. Lemley's being a resident of Waco and stated that he lived in her home. Sam Johnson testified that Dr. Lemley had called on his son and had given him adjustments. R. V. McLain, clerk in district courts told the judge that no record had been filed by Lemley granting him the right to practice medicine in the state.

Bernard Johnson, a small boy of Boazville, was placed on the witness stand and stated that he had been given adjustments by Dr. Lemley and that he could now walk with the aid of crutches.

Harold Jones, 9-year-old boy living near Speerleville, testified that prior to the time treated by Dr. Lemley he could not move his leg but that now he was better and that he was going to get well.

Dr. Lemley went on the stand and was cross-examined by the state as to his knowledge of anatomy. He answered several questions by giving the location, his attorney objected and objections were overruled by the judge. The doctor then failed to answer other questions put by the state concerning anatomy stating that he did not at the present time know but that he had known all of them when studying anatomy.

The case will start at 9 o'clock Friday morning, several witnesses yet to be examined.

M'LENNAN OFFICERS SAY SPEED OR AUTO LAWS TO BE PUSHED

Officers of McLennan county and the city of Waco state that they will enforce rigidly the new state automobile law that has recently gone into effect and that the speeding provision will be carried out to the letter.

Sheriff Fleming stated that the twenty-five miles an hour provided for by the law was fast enough and that special care would be taken to enforce it.

"Every one will be treated alike and no favors will be shown," stated the sheriff. "The practice of speeding on county roads has been broken up to a great extent and with the strict enforcement of the new law our roads will be safe in every respect."

"Speeders have had no easy time in Waco," said Police Chief McNamara, "and matters will be even stricter for them now. We are instructing all our officers to play no favorites and the docket shows that it is being lived up to. Some of the new provisions in the law that have not been given wide publicity as yet will not be so rigidly enforced for a few days. Chauffeurs will continue to receive permits from the city until the state permits arrive; they will then be refunded their money and issued a new permit."

One feature of the new law that is not familiar to many is that autoists are required to slow down their speed to six miles an hour when negotiating railroad crossings.

TODAY IS FINAL AND BANNER DAY FOR MART FAIR

FRIDAY IS LAST DAY OF MART'S ANNUAL FAIR

GOOD CARD OF RACES ANNOUNCED—BANNER DAY PROMISED.

Special to The News. Mart, July 5.—Friday will be the last day of the Mart fair and stock show. This is expected to be the biggest day of the fair. Owing to the rain that has fallen, large crowds are expected to witness the last day of the greatest fair that Mart has ever known. Wednesday, July 4, has been the best attended day so far, but today is expected to far exceed Wednesday.

The greatest attraction Friday will be the giving away of the Ford car. Season tickets were sold and with each ticket were given four chances at the Ford. The person holding lucky number today will drive home the car. It is announced that the person holding the lucky ticket will have to be on the ground or another ticket will be drawn. The drawing will take place at the fair grounds at 5 p. m. Large numbers of persons hold chances at the Ford, and this naturally will draw a big crowd.

Another big feature will be the races. The races Friday are by far superior to the preceding running and harness races between some of the fastest horses in Texas.

Despite the fact that many of the fairs in Texas have been called off owing to war conditions, the live town of Mart has showed its courage by facing these conditions and staging the best fair in the history of the town. The officials state that the financial success is assured and it is evident that the fair is a success in every other way.

Society at Mart

"A Day in Flowerdom," given at the auditorium Tuesday night under the auspices of the Fine Arts club, was a great success in every way.

Besides "A Day in Flowerdom," in which a large number of children were given parts, there was a patriotic drill by the boy scouts in uniform, and girls wearing red cross hats. Also a violin selection by Miss Winona Gause, which was greatly enjoyed, and the famous "Russell-Waddell" minstrel.

Mrs. J. Sewell entertained last Monday afternoon at bridge for her house guests. Miss Carolyn Housman of Houston, a punch was served as the game progressed, and a delicious coffee course followed. Mrs. Sewell's guests, numbering four tables, included Misses Carolyn Housman, Houston; Lillian Hood, Houston; Marguerite Panchard, Louise Howard, Naida Barthelemy, Hazel Barnes; Mesdames A. L. Noble, M. D. Wolcott, E. G. Goforth, Walter D. M. L. Langford, C. K. Bryan, J. E. Waddell, J. R. Gilliam and A. Drumwright. Miss Nettie Edna Shields and Quintin T. Kincannon were married at J. N. BIG CROWD IN MART TO HEAR FARM ADDRESS

W. W. WOODSON AND JOHN GORHAM DELIVER TALKS THERE ON THURSDAY.

Special to The News. Mart, July 5.—Despite the rain that fell, causing many to be absent, there was a good crowd this morning to hear W. W. Woodson of Waco and John Gorham of Texas A. and M. college speak on subjects of vital importance to the farmer as well as merchants of the town and adjacent country.

E. M. Barner was master of ceremonies introducing each speaker with timely remarks.

Mr. Woodson, chairman of the agricultural committee, Fourth District, Texas Bankers' association, was the first to speak. His subject was "Independence," in which he showed that we are politically but not commercially independent. He stated that the independence of the American people was won by farmers, for George Washington and the other great heroes of the Revolution were farmers. In his discourse he eulogized Woodrow Wilson and stated that as long as a man like our president was at the head of our government he did not fear for the future of the United States.

Mr. Woodson stated that the farmers were the most independent people in the world. The merchants were not independent because they feared to speak and do as they please for fear they would injure their business. He also said that farmers should spend more of their money in beautifying and improving their homes.

Hear Jno. Gorham. Mr. Jno. Gorham, president Texas Farmers' congress, spoke at length along the same lines followed by Mr. Woodson. His subject was "Agriculture and Commerce." He stressed the fact that agriculture and commerce were brothers and not cousins as some believed. He said that merchants and farmers should work for the interests of each other, for one could not progress without the help of the other. He stated that the farmers should know more of the condition of their soil, and that the fertility of the soil should be cared for. He stressed the necessity of educating the boys and girls who live on the farm.

Mr. Gorham also said that the farmers should not hoard their money in banks but should spend some of it improving their homes and lands. He said that the house was the index to the farm, and the condition of the farm houses in general was the index to the communities.

Notes of the Fair

From 9 o'clock until 2 o'clock on the Fourth day Mart entertained 5000 visitors, arriving between those hours, in attendance upon the fair. It was perhaps the largest crowd that ever was in Mart and the most successful day in the history of the fair.

At about 6 o'clock there was a down-pour of rain, which caught over 1000 visitors in town who could not get away. All of them were comfortably housed and entertained free of charge. Practically every home in Mart was thrown open to the visitors, and on departing they were invited to come again, either as the guests of the storm or on any other occasion that chance might present.

It is reported by one of those in attendance that there was an automobile meet attended by about sixty to seventy-five automobiles, in the seven-mile lane Wednesday evening. The conditions of entry into the festivities seems to have been the inability to get away and the ones with the weakest motors, minus mud chains, seem to have been the ones taking highest honors by remaining on the road longest.

The baby show in connection with the Mart fair was held in the city auditorium on Tuesday morning. Following is a list of the winners:

CLOTHES CLEANERS HERE HELPED BY MART TRIP

The cleaning shops of the city were doing a rushing business Thursday. It is stated, due to the big lot of business furnished by those who went to Mart Wednesday and got "suck" in the long lane leading to the Marlin road.

Many of those in the machines had to get out in the mud, some slid into the ditch, and a scene of great confusion followed when a machine or two in the front became helpless and blocked the way for others, stopping the long line of autos making their way back toward Waco. Some were not only muddy, but were drenched from head to foot by the rain.

BOSTON PITCHERS SHOW STUFF AND NAB GAME

By Associated Press.

Philadelphia, July 5.—Boston won the final game of the series here today, the score being 3 to 0. The defeat was due to the splendid pitching of Tyler and Nehf, the former retiring in the third inning, when he split his left hand stopping a fast grounder off Niehoff's bat. This was the first series lost by Philadelphia at home since the opening series with Brooklyn last April. The defeat also marked the first shutout this season of the home team. Bancroft was put off the field by umpire Brandfield for objecting to a decision at third base. Score:

Alkali Makes Soap Bad for Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsed coconut oil for this is very pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and sand.

JULY 15TH NOW DATE OF SURVEY

DIRECTOR BUREAU OF RURAL SANITATION SENDS WORD OF PROPOSED COUNTY WORK.

War has caused delay in the start of the health survey of McLennan county, according to the statement of Dr. P. W. Covington, director of the bureau of rural sanitation, Texas health department. McLennan is not the only county in the state that has arranged for these health surveys.

The appropriation of $70,000 by the legislature, which is to be supplemented by a like sum from the Rockefeller Foundation, through the International health board, became available on June 20, and Director Covington has sent word that he had intended to start the survey in Bexar, Dallas, Polk and McLennan counties on July 1, but that owing to war conditions, which interfered in the securing of the right kind of men to assist in the work, the work was postponed until July 15. At that time he is confident that the work will start, as the entire force, with the exception of one assistant, has now been engaged.

"We have tried to secure the services of graduates of academic departments and medical schools who are equipped for this kind of work," said Dr. Covington. "We desired to get men who have had experience in sanitation work. The army and navy have been out for the same class of men, and for that reason we have been delayed."

The state and international health boards propose to spend from $3,000 to $6,000 in conducting intensive health work in the rural districts of any county agreeing to employ four local assistants at the rate of $50 a month each for a period of not less than four months. These lay assistants are to work with a staff of trained sanitarians who will, in the event the proposition is accepted by the county commissioners, conduct the work. Dr. Covington, who has been selected as the director of the bureau of rural sanitation by the Texas health board, is professor of preventive medicine in the medical department of the University of Texas, a physician of long experience in rural health work. He was also selected for the work by the international health board.

Student at Camp Funston Complained

About Food—Officer Sent Him Home

According to letters received in Waco from Waco men at the Leon Springs training camp it appears that with more than half their training period gone the young men have established a right to consideration for commissions in some branch of the service, say the letters. It is intimated by army men high in authority that every one of the men who have survived the grueling work up to now will be used in some way.

camp history. Every man in the camp was watched by the officer instructors and a card index was kept on him right from the beginning. Every infringement of rules, every breach of etiquette, every inattention to study, every evidence of carelessness and every other indication of unfitness to be "an officer and a gentleman" was jotted down. Every man who attended strictly to business, made sincere effort to study, was careful about his appearance and speech, was neat in his quarters and who abided faithfully by the rules and regulations was given credit.

These last men are the ones who are still in the camp and who will go through with the course and ultimately become officers. The others are gradually being dropped on one score or another and sent on their way. Some who were found unfit for some fault not their own were kindly informed that it would be useless or imprudent for them to finish the course. These mostly were men upon whose health the work had a deleterious effect. The others who were dismissed were given reasons definite and anything but kindly, but nevertheless potent.

Complained About the Food.

It is related that one student complained about the food. The officer to whom he was talking replied: "You're absolutely right. It isn't as good as it should be and we are going to better it next week. That will not interest you, however, for you will not be here to enjoy it." And that night the young man received notice that he had been dropped from the rolls. It was not because he had complained but because he was one of those who had received a maximum number of "black marks" and the officer was simply awaiting an opportune moment to tell him about it.

WHAT AMERICAN MEANS.

WE are knee deep in war right now.
We are making every effort to conserve our resources so as to make them count for most in war.
We are trying to shape the work of the nation to fit war conditions.
We are trying to center everything on winning the war in the shortest possible time.
In midst of this there are certain interests that cannot seem to remember we are at war.
They see a good chance to pile up profits for themselves at the expense of the nation.
They are willing to block the war
progress, willing to tangle up the war machinery, if only they can make something by doing so.
Grain speculators are in this class.
Food speculators are in this class.
Coal magnates who juggle the market or restrict production are in this class.
Railroad magnates who try to balk plans for railroad effectiveness for war are in this class.
And along with these are a lot of smaller fish who, the less powerful,
lack none of the intent to profit at the expense of the nation's need.
Perhaps they don't think this profiteering is anti-patriotic, but it is.
America must crush this profiteering. America must stop this stabbing from within.
And no man who calls himself an American should be guilty of that kind of conduct.
An American these days is a man who puts America's interests ahead of everything. And nobody else is an American!

NEAR-PATRIOTS MAY BE NEAR-TRAITORS.

AN examination of the lists of those who made very large subscriptions to the liberty loan, or who gave very liberally to the $100,000,000 fund for the Red Cross, gives one the opportunity to distinguish between the patriots and the near-patriots.
The former class consists of those who, in common with thousands of their less well-to-do brothers, had no money interest in the war and gave according to their means, seeking to enlist at least part of their fortunes
in the war for democracy.
The near-patriot class is not quite so honorable. It is made up of those who have a dollar interest, a profit interest in the war. They may seek to whitewash themselves, they may strive to save their callous consciences, but they stand branded just the same.
What boots it to invest thousands of dollars in the liberty loan with one hand, while with the other the near-patriot is cornering the market on some necessity of life for which the mass of Americans are gouged to the limit?
In what way is one a lover of humanity if at the same time that he gives to the Red Cross, he takes from the poor in the shape of unjust prices?
Real patriotism, real love of country is demonstrated all along the line, every hour of the day. It is not side-tracked when there is a chance for an extra profit. It is not forgotten when there is an opportunity "to do" the government or the people.
Real patriotism puts country above self. Near-patriotism only remembers are not at stake. The real patriot is country when self's private interests all patriot. The near-patriot is pretty close to being a near-traitor. For he,
who coins extra gold out of the necessities of his country and the needs of his countrymen in time of war, is on the road to rendering aid and comfort to the enemies of his country.

MORE INSENSATE HYPHENISM.

IT used to be said of the Bourbon kings of France that they learned nothing new and forgot nothing old.
The same is very largely true of the German-language papers in our larger cities. They cannot learn anything of the Americanism of this country in which they are suffered to exist. They cannot forget anything of their old admiration and allegiance to the kaiser and his henchmen. They have mistaken our easy-going American tolerance for license.

Now that the first shock of worry
as to their status in this country has passed, they are resuming their un-American tactics. They do not do this by coming out with "one big, bold smash, but by the none the less objectionable plan of little daily pecks and dabs. Here is the Illinois Staats-Zeitung, for instance, saying:

"Now a great cry is sounded in administration circles: 'Destroy world
autocracy—enthroned world democracy.' That is a bigger order than 'catch Villa' ever was. We did not catch Villa and we will not dethrone
the world autocracy. We cannot follow the administration with that slogan."

The truth is, of course, that this obnoxious sheet cannot follow the administration with any American slogan.
Anything aimed at Prussian militarism, at German autocracy, at the kaiser, jars the Staats-Zeitung to the very nerve centers.

And every time it lets out a snarl it gives a perfect example of the insensate hyphenism which is bound some day soon to react to its own hurt.

TO THE COLORS!

VOLUNTEERS are wanted!
There is something magical
about the call for volunteers.

Volunteers are always called for
when there is stern work ahead.

Volunteers stole up to old Ticonderoga for a desperate night's work.

The good old Monitor was manned
by volunteers when she went out to meet the Merrimac.

Volunteers went out in the first little American submarine on as daring
a trip as ever man embarked upon.

Volunteers went with Hobson into Santiago harbor to block it and bottle
up the Spanish fleet.

President Wilson has called for volunteers now for the American army.
What these men do will go down in history with the great deeds of the past—a part of the record of glorious deeds for liberty.

Seventy thousand men are wanted
for the American army. Seventy thousand fighting men!

Here is the opportunity for those who can leave at once to serve the nation.

Texas, arise! Answer the president's call!

Volunteer today for democracy's service.

Volunteers are wanted.

It is a call to stir the blood of brave
men!

TWO MEALS A DAY.

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

Not long ago the American Medico-Psychological association held its annual meeting in New York. Many well known physicians addressed the meeting. Also at least one well known layman spoke.

The layman was Carl S. Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture at Washington. The purpose of his address was to urge the assembled medical specialists to co-operate with the government in impressing on the public the urgent necessity for prudent
use of foodstuffs.

Wise Mr. Vrooman reminded his audience of physicians that they should emphasize in their home communities not only the patriotic importance of diet restriction, but also its hygienic desirability. In effect he said:

"For the duration of the war people ought to get along on two meals a day. They can do this without injury to themselves and in many cases with real benefit. For many people eat more food than is good for them."

Undoubtedly there are thousands who daily eat too much. Undoubtedly there are thousands who daily could skip a meal to their great advantage.
But will they do this? Habit is a potent governing force in human life,
and the three meals a day habit is pretty firmly fixed in the life of our people.

Moreover, in shifting to a basis of two meals a day, many people for some time would experience serious discomfort. There are many, for example, who always have a headache if they fail to eat at their accustomed time.

Such people are unlikely to persevere in trying to form a habit of eating only twice daily. "I simply can't do it," they will affirm. And, thus affirming, they will promptly return to their third meal.

Well, let them do so. After all, it is unnecessary to sacrifice a meal. PRO-VIDE THE DAILY RATION AS A WHOLE BE SO REDUCED THAT IN
THE THREE MEALS ONLY THE EQUIVALENT OF TWO REGULAR MEALS IS EATEN.

This is an alternative open to those who feel that they cannot do without three meals. And I suggest that they at once resolve to restrict their diet in this alternative way.

The result will be the same as tho
they acted on Mr. Vrooman's proposal.
They will be performing their part in the patriotic public duty of food conservation. And, having previously been eating too much, they will gain
in personal health and efficiency.

Everybody on this side of the Atlantic MUST do something to help in the present food crisis. This is imperative. Mr. Vrooman did not exaggerate when he told the members of the American Medico-Psychological association:

"It is America's problem to see that more men do not starve in Europe
this year than were killed in the trenches last year. Famine is looking over the sky-line of every European country."

"Our crops are all that stand between mankind and starvation in the months to come. It is not humanly possible to overstate the seriousness of the food shortage the world is facing today."

To eat only two meals a day, or the equivalent of only two meals, this is assuredly one thing that everybody except the positively ill can do to help in the saving of civilization.

Much Ado About Nothing
By Roy K. Moulton.

HIS NIGHT OFF.

Where is my wandering dad tonight?
That's what I'd like to know.
Mother cannot check him up right
As in the long ago.

'Tis always dawn when he gets home.
His alibi's immense.
He has the grand excuse to roam.
He's joined the home defense.

Met a man yesterday who said he hadn't had a night out in twenty years,
until he began serving his country.
Pleasant are the uses of adversity.

What's the use of putting rum under the ban? Nobody ever drinks rum, anyhow. Which is reminding of the time George Ade went to the temperance lecture. The lecturer cited himself as a horrible example of a booze-hound who had been rescued from the toils of the habit. George rose and asked: "Brother, I would like to inquire what it was you drank, when you were such a lush." The lecturer paused and stammered. It was a pointed question. "Well," he stuttered, "I always drank rum." "That's funny," said George. "You are the only man I ever saw who did."

Safety First!—Recently discovered

A jovial party who had been absent for some time, blew into town the other day, and after a fruitless search threw up his hands in despair.
"Great guns," he said "this town is certainly becoming demoralized. I haven't found a man today who would take a drink with me."

U. CONSUMERS'S DIARY.

June 30.—I am a very sick man today and my physician prescribes a long rest.

I am the old original shock absorber,
but I got a jolt yesterday which laid me low.

In the morning my wife was reading
the paper aloud when she came across an item which threw her into hysterics. She fell in a dead faint after a brief period and it was with considerable difficulty that we restored her.

This done, I glanced at the headline
she had read and suddenly my mind became a blank. I collapsed and next thing I knew the doctors and nurses were gazing down upon me. The headline I had read was:

"Potatoes Drop 65 Cents a Bushel."
The doctors say if they had dropped 70 cents I would have been a dead man. Another five-cent shock would have killed me.

Dispatch from Washington says sev-

THOSE NEWSY CABLES.

Some Port in France, June 30.—A detachment of American troops num-arrived somewhere near here safely at o'clock today. They will go immediately into a camp near here until they are moved to a certain camp which is further from here. They were brought in transports, the names of which are not announced.

Optimistic Note—A distinguished

have often suspected as much.

Among those who have apparently

American Hero of the Foreign Legion
Tells Story of His Fight for France

BY CAPTAIN CHARLES SWEENEY,
Of the Foreign Legion.

NO. 7—FORWARD! SINGING INTO DEATH.

It was during a German attack upon a French position on the Aisne that I was privileged to witness the most sublime example of military courage I have ever known.

This was in the earlier part of the war, before the heavy artillery had begun to play the all important part it does nowadays. Then neither side had many guns. The Germans still maintained their theory of mass attacks. The bombardment preliminaries to an attack were usually short
and of little weight by comparison.
When the attacking forces moved forward the defenders held their positions by rifle fire, hand grenades, and in the final rush by butt and bayonet and knife.

"Make your way to the hill at our left and find out what is happening,"
the battalion commander ordered me.
This was in January, 1915, when I was still a cyclist orderly. An infantry regiment from the south of France held this little hill and had been severely attacked. We had few guns then and almost no ammunition for them. Nor were our machine guns numerous or well provisioned. We were accustomed to rely on rifle fire
for the most part to hold our positions. I reached the hill just at dusk, on the evening of January 18, if my memory serves me well. I remember that I could just make out objects which were at a distance of sixty or seventy-five yards. Beyond that distance all blended into a common background.

"They are coming," some man said
next to me in the trench.
The Hymn of Death.

The French line was at the top of this little hill. I could see at the bottom a gray mass moving forward slowly, with something the effect of a retarded but irresistible wave. The Germans were still too far away to permit me to pick out individuals. I only saw a gray-green thickening in the increasing dusk. Then we began to hear their voices. The Germans were singing the "Lorelei."

"Sie kammt es mit goldenen kamme
Und singt ein lied dabei
Das hat eine wunderschone, Gewaltige melodei."

It is a sad and yet a very beautiful that "Lorelei"—the story of the young man who was lured to his doom
by the mermaid's song as she combed her golden hair. It especially lends itself to the needs of a male chorus.
The great volume of sound surged up the hill toward us, waiting in the French trenches, with an effect that is difficult for me to describe. It was overpoweringly masculine and yet it was almost pathetic in its appeal. Perhaps it was because we knew most of the singers were going to their deaths
that we found something ineffably sad
in the intoning of the mournful air.

"Poor devils," I heard the men whisper on either side of me.
It was sheer pity plus that magnificent chivalry of the Frenchman that led the men from the south to withhold their fire until that solid wall of Germans was within fifty yards. It seemed as though we could not fire upon those knowingly upon a sure fate. The song rose higher as they came nearer our trench, for they could see our heads over the parapet and the rifles held in rest and they knew that any second death might spurt in their faces.

Then the Bullets.
It reached a magnificent crescendo
at last:

"Ich weiss nicht was soll es bedeuten Das Ich so traurig bin."

Then the captains nodded and the rifles began to crackle all along that line. The first rank dropped, and the second rank moved on across their writting bodies, still singing. There came a rift in the clouds so that the last pale rays of a wintry sun shone down upon the scene. The cries of the wounded rose until a tragic undertone mingled with the mournful rhythm.
Some of the advancing men were screaming in a German rage—the furor Teutonicus—and others were grunting in a sort of battle delirium.
Over all rang that wonderful male chorus, however, and so they sang,
and so they marched on and so they died, until in the end they crowded us out by sheer weight of numbers and took the trench. Toward the last the advancing men literally crawled over a hedge of bodies to get at us. I know that one often reads of such a thing, but it is not often witnessed. The men who die that way are the bravest of foes.

No more magnificent example of heroism has been seen in this war, I am sure. I have fought the German from the beginning of the war because I felt it to be my duty. I have no kindly feeling for the race or for the individuals that compose it. But I would be the last to decry the personal courage of the German. The men who can do a thing like that—who can sing in the face of certain death and keep on singing and dying—whatever else they may be, they are not cowards.

BACKACHE KILLS!

Don't make the fatal mistake of neglecting what may seem to be a "simple little backache." There isn't any such thing. It may be the first warning that your kidneys are not working properly, and throwing off the poisons as they should. If this is the case, go after the cause of that backache and do it quickly, or you may find yourself in the grip
of an incurable disease.

New York Day By Day

By O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 5.—As Samuel Pepys
would record in his diary: Up early and through the town on my vellopode
to Gramercy Park and meet a churlish lady who complained because, dolt that I am, I knocked at the wrong door.

Find a stray kitten in the hallway
and take it to the apartment of L.
Ralph, the artist, and after feeding it hot milk we christened it "Adelaid."
until J. Sloane came and upset the christening declaring if it was to be named at all it should be "Clarence."
Great talk in the cafes of J. Barleycorn being in the same class with W.
Hohensollern—the world being against both. And if the "bone dry" amendment is passed I wonder who will cackle at the quips of the barmen.
To an inn to meet S. Kaufman, the chronicler, and he mentions the weather not once which was restful.

To City Hall park where I dig with a spade to plant a chestnut tree in honor of the journalistic jesters who have come from all over to jolly.
Lord Mitchell, the mayor, made a speech, very pretty, and B. Merritt of Nashville replied happily and with much wit.

To my solicitor in Wall Street where I receive a check for ten pounds and never have I felt so much like a bloated bondholder before. And the solicitor tells me about many stocks and I sat gravely and nodded like I knew what he was talking about.

To a gay party atop a hotel where came J. Waldron, of Judge; E. Geist, of Detroit; S. Gillian, of Baltimore; T.
Daly, of Philadelphia; H. Gray, D. Herold, F. P. A., Don Marquis and many others. And so home and to bed.

Park Row was surprised by the news that Arthur Brisbane, reputed to be the highest salaried newspaper editor in the world, is to leave New York. He has purchased the Washington Times from Mr. Munsey and will live at the capital.

Brisbane was the founder of the Hearst style of journalism—and whatever may be said against it there is one fact that stands out. It makes circulation. Long ago Brisbane described his idea of news to a cub reporter. He said: "If a dog bites a man it is not news but if a man bites a dog it is news." In other words, Brisbane seeks the unusual.

There have been many rumors that Brisbane and Hearst were to part company although it is announced that he is still to contribute to Hearst Journals.
Rumor had it before Mr. Munsey bought the New York Sun that Brisbane was to buy it but the deal did not come off—if it was ever contemplated.
Brisbane is slight, bald and about the most studios stype one could imagine.
He delights in writing editorials for
"the boys on the barges and the women in wrappers."

A smiling gentle woman, not young but still appearing to be on the sunny side of sixty, attracted much attention on the Boardwalk at Long Beach Sunday. She was in a roller chair and seemed to be enjoying life to the fullest. It was the consensus of opinion of those who saw her that she was the pluckiest optimist alive. She was Sarah Bernhardt, or what there is left of her.

Behold, there is an oasis sprung up in the desert of Park avenue in the neighborhood of the Seventy-first armory. Drinks are banned for men in the uniform and the cafes and saloons in the neighborhood were suffering a great loss. The new drinks have the names of "Madagascar Stinger," the "Rifle Kick" and the "Kipling Red Line." None is alcoholic, but something soft with a little pep to it and the fighting men declare they have just as much fun drinking them—and they feel much better the next day.

CANTEN COOKING.

By Jessie Roberts.

"Dear Miss Roberts—I am anxious to get into useful work to help during this time of war. I think that I could do well as a cook in the canteen. Where can I learn this branch and will an ordinary knowledge of cooking, which I possess, be sufficient for entrance examination, if that is required?"

"ANNE ELIZABETH."

Apply to your local branch of the Y. W. C. A. and see whether they are not conducting a class in canteen cooking. Most of the larger branches are doing this, and the instruction is good. What you know of cooking will be a first-rate help to you, but you are not required to take an entrance examination.

If the Y. W. C. A. in your vicinity does not teach such a class, get into communication with one of the many women's patriotic associations and with the suffrage party. All these organizations are working for the country, and are glad to enroll young women in any special branch of work that appeals to them.

You will not, of course, expect to cook for the regiment. The canteen work is done for soldiers passing through your town, or unexpectedly quartered there for a few days. It is intended to feed the soldiers who are not prepared to feed themselves, as they are when in camp.

But certain canteen cooks among the women are giving instruction to the boys, so that they may have at least a notion of the simple rules and processes. There will very likely be more call for this special part of the canteen work before the year is out.

Converted.

"Who's that fire-eating individual over there? He seems to be going about with a chip on his shoulder all the time."

"Oh, he used to be a pacifist. But the other day he hit a man on the jaw and got away with it, and since then he's been looking for more worlds to conquer."—Detroit Free Press.

SENDING JEWISH SUFFERERS SUMS
GLEANED IN U. S.DISTRIBUTION COMMITTEE BE-GINS FORWARDING OF AMOUNTS ABROAD.

It will be of interest to many in Waco who have so generously contributed to the relief fund for Jewish war sufferers that announcement was made at a meeting yesterday of the joint distribution committee of the funds for Jewish war sufferers, held at the office of the chairman, Felix M. Warburg, 52 William street, that following negotiations with the state department carried on since the entrance of the United States into the war, arrangements have been completed for the sending of Jewish funds into all those countries occupied by foreign armies.

As a result of the completion of these negotiations, the joint distribution committee at once sent funds thru the Dutch ambassador at Washington, to be forwarded by him to the government of H. M. the Queen of Holland, and to be in turn transmitted by the Dutch government to the local committees of Jews engaged in distributing relief in the various countries.

The committee appropriated $150,000 for Poland and Lithuania in German occupation and $100,000 for Poland in Austrian occupation. The committee also appropriated $50,000 for feeding and clothing the children in the Hebrew schools in Warsaw. Included in this amount is $10,000 specifically designated for those children who are attending the schools of the Dinsohn and Medom type.

More for Rumania.

It further voted the sum of $40,000 for Rumania, which is to be intrusted to Mr. Vopicka, United States minister to Rumania, who is now in this country, and who is shortly to return to his post via Russia. When in Moscow, Mr. Vopicka will purchase food with this money, and with the co-operation of the Russian government will take it with him into Rumania for distribution among the Jews in that country.

In addition the committee appropriated $95,000 for Palestine, this being the usual $40,000 monthly appropriation for general relief in Palestine, $2,000 for the Dreyfus soup kitchens, $2,000 for the Nathan Straus soup kitchens and $1,000 for the health bureau at Jerusalem.

In view of the situation that has been reported as existing in Palestine, the committee also appropriated $50,000 additional to be distributed at the discretion of S. Hoeffen, director of the Anglo-Palestine bank at Jerusalem, who has been appointed by the Dutch government as its special representative in Palestine for the Jewish relief work of the joint distribution committee.

Little Stories for Bedtime

Something About Shadows.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Shadows there are in the day.

When Mr. Sun shines brightly;

But those that people often fear

Are shadows that come nightly.

Did you ever stop to think that there are shadows when jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun is shining his very brightest and that these shadows almost always are friendly? It is always cooler and more comfortable in these shadows, and without them the world just simply couldn't get along. What we call shade on a hot sunny day is nothing more than a lot of shadows together.

But at night there are other shadows, the Black Shadows. They come creeping out from the Purple Hills as soon as Mr. Sun goes to bed, and they stay until he gets up the next morning. Those shadows also are very welcome after a hot day, for they mean coolness and comfort. But the Black Shadows of the night sometimes are fearsome things because of the things that are done in them. That is why most of the lit-very convenient eyes. They can see perfectly by day, and they also see at night. So they sleep whenever they feel like it, and go hunting whenever they feel like it, and it makes no real difference to them whether Mr. Sun is up or in bed behind the Purple Hills. Of course, their five children were just like them in this respect, and they were out at night as often as in the daytime.

Now, Billy and Mrs. Mink are feared by everybody smaller than themselves and by many considerably bigger. But they in their turn are not altogether without fear. No one knows better than they that Hooty the Owl wouldn't hesitate a second to catch one of them if he had the chance when he was especially hungry. There are others on whom he would much rather dine, but Hooty isn't over-particular when he is hungry. As for young Minks, well, Hooty wouldn't have to be so terribly hungry to be tempted by one should the chance offer to catch one.

So Mrs. Billy warned the five little Minks that the greatest danger they must watch out for would be in the air. And she warned them to watch out for shadows at night.

"You see," she explained, "that big robber of a Hooty flies without a sound. The wings of the Hawk family rustle, and if you are reasonably quick, as every Mink should be, you can dodge out of danger at the sound of the wings of any Hawk foolish enough to try to catch you. But Hooty's wings are as silent as the Black Shadows themselves. My ears are very sharp, as you know, but I have had Hooty pass just above a place where I was hiding and haven't heard a sound. You needn't be afraid of him in the daytime, but at night you must keep your eyes wide open every second if you want to live to grow up. The instant you see a shadow that moves in the night hide. Don't stop to make sure what that shadow is. Hide first and make sure afterward."

The five little Minks said, "Yes, marm." But in their foolish little hearts they were sure that they were too smart to be caught by Hooty or anybody else, and that Mother was just a little over anxious, as mothers are apt to be.

Next Story: The Boldest Little Mink.

Mrs. Billy Warned the Five Little Minks.

the people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest hide as soon as jolly Mr. Sun goes to bed. And that is why certain other little people who can see among the Black Shadows do all their hunting then. You see, it is easier for them to surprise and catch those whom they hunt because the latter cannot see.

For the American Woman

A MOTHER'S SACRIFICE.

By Mary E. Watler.

"A soldier's glorious sacrifice!" dreamily repeated the little old, white-haired lady, passing her slender finger tips over the faded miniature, the crumbling roses and the new little silk national flag that lay in her lap. She picked up the picture and looked into the dim face there. Her eyes glowed with tenderness over the sorrow that had grown a beautiful memory thru many years. "My brother!" she said. "When I was a soldier. He went away when he was a girl of twenty. When he kissed mother good-by and held her tenderly in his arms she was so silent and pale. She never shed a tear. We couldn't understand why. We knew she was loyal to her country—oh, but that look in her eyes! I never knew till I was a mother what it meant. She was sending away her son, for whose life she had been willing to sacrifice her life; the baby that had brought her the first joy of motherhood, the little boy she had held in her arms. And when brother came home—when they brought him home to mother, under a wreath of immortelles, all the neighbors came to praise 'the soldier's glorious sacrifice for his country!' But mother was still silent and white and tearless, and only mothers can know what was in her heart! She put down the miniature and smiled sadly into the pictured face. The little old lady picked up the crumbling roses. The smile faded.

Over her bright black eyes came a mist. "My boy!" she murmured, tremblingly. "He was so handsome in his lieutenant's uniform, six feet tall, the little child I had borne and nursed at my breast. When he went away he brought me these red roses, for his 'sweetheart,' he always called me his sweetheart, and he put his arms round me and kissed me as if I were the dearest one on earth to him."

Her voice dropped to a whisper: "He never—came back! My boy never came back! And when every one talked of his 'glorious sacrifice,' and the papers praised him and men of his regiment came to see me—oh, how could they know a mother's heart!" Her tears dropped on the crumbling roses, once red with life and love, and she sat looking back through the Calomel Today! Sick Tomorrow!

I Guarantee Dodson's Liver Tone

Don't take nasty, dangerous calomel when bilious, constipated, headachy. Listen to me!

Calomel makes you sick; you lose a day's work. Calomel is quicksilver and it salivates; calomel injures your liver.

If you are bilious, feel lazy, sluggish and all knocked out, if your bowels are constipated and your head aches or stomach is sour, just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone instead of using sickening, salivating calomel. Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and bowels regular. You will feel like working. You'll be cheerful! full of vigor and ambition.

Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal guarantee that it will clean your sluggish liver better than nasty calomel; it won't make you sick and you can eat anything you want without being salivated. Your druggist guarantees that each spoonful will start your liver, clean your bowels and straighten you up by morning or you get your money back. Children gladly take Dodson's Liver Tone because it is pleasant tasting and doesn't gripe or cramp or make them sick.

I am selling millions of bottles of Dodson's Liver Tone to people who have found that this pleasant, vegetable liver medicine takes the place of dangerous calomel. Buy one bottle on my sound, reliable guarantee. Ask your druggist about me.

Good news for the thirsty! Here's a beverage that not only will taste good while you are drinking it, but that will leave the mouth tasting as fresh as a May morning. One, too, that has that very desirable quality of having no heating after-effects.

As a between-meals drink it has the happy faculty of always reaching that dry spot that needs irrigation. With meals, it is an ideal beverage. Not only does its flavor make it go perfectly with food, but its tang adds zest to your enjoyment of a meal—hot or cold.

of facts which have been developed will forever be a barrier between her and lightheartedness. She will go to her grave with the deep scar of this trial on her heart. If he is convicted, there is no saving what will happen. She is not of the type that will forget easily.

Study of the Family.

The study of the defendant's family during the argument was a heartrending one. One or two of the men assumed nonchalance. One close relative chewed gum and swung a careless foot. A sister of the accused sat with a smile hovering bravely around her lips, but her eyes told a tale of suffering which the lips could not conceal. The mother was frankly worn, worn-out and sad. She is small and dark and of the intense type. No smallest detail escapes her. Her quick eyes see everything and her strained attention grasps quickly all the evidence for and against.

The family of the dead girl has shown admirable composure throughout, but they, too, have had their Gethsemane. At times the mother quietly and unobtrusively drops her thick black veil and bows her head on her hands. The elder sister with her intensely black hair already threaded with gray looks on, but with eyes that seem to be seeing in the past. Her cheeks, too, have become thinner and her face haggard. The dead girl seems to have been her favorite of all the family and her grief is the most evident, but not for just violence.

Ellis, the sister just older than Emma, has all the fire and audacity of youth. Her answers to all questions were decided and fearless. Her extremely white hands and her dainty appearance, both of face and clothing, excited the admiration of strangers in the city.

But what of the jury that after all will decide the fate of Willie Porter? These twelve men are of varying ages and of many types. But with one accord they seem to have chosen to appear not even remotely interested in the proceedings. Three of them chewed gum during the argument and at no time were the eyes of all focused on the witness, or the prisoner, or on the attorneys. One man sat all day long with his feet perched on the pedestal at the end of the jury's box. His comfort seems to be his vital concern.

If their minds are like mine, they are torn between doubts aroused first by an attorney for the defense, then by an attorney for the prosecution. But of all in the court room they seem to be the least moved by the oratory incident to so many speeches. When one lawyer began at Genesis and quoted all the harrowing passages relating to justice and to wronged girls clear through to Revelations, and then recited all the poetry which he had memorized for Friday afternoons at school, they sat unmoved, uninterested and uninspired.

Judge Durrett's speech for the prosecution was ably delivered. It was given at the night session of Wednesday, and was a concise tying together of the threads of testimony, presented in an attempt to convince the jury that they had heard a mass of consistent facts presented by the prosecution which would point inevitably to but one conclusion—the guilt of the defendant.

J. B. Hubbard for the Defense.

J. B. Hubbard for the defense delivered an impassioned speech, in which he several times called on God to witness the absurdity of some evidence or statement presented by the prosecution. His chief work was in attacking the testimony of the prosecution, and in giving plausible reasons why the jury should not accept it as true.

With reference to the Saturday before the disappearance on Monday, Hubbard showed how the testimony presented, in his opinion, a conflict. He said that some had testified to seeing Miss Staley and Mr. Porter on the south side of the church, some on the north side. He also pointed out that the testimony of Des Robinson about seeing them on the cement sidewalk contradicted in point of time the testimony of the other state witnesses. With reference to the testimony of the negro, Gilmer, he said:

"I wonder how many couples stood there waiting for trains that day?"

"Whether there is a motive behind the testimony of all these young men I don't know. Whether it is an attempt on the part of any of them to conceal something to protect some one else, I don't know, but it looks a little like a conspiracy among those boys. Gentlemen, the defendant and his little wife have testified where the defendant was on that night. They did it surrounded by the prosecution on the night of the arrest. The prosecution will say that this alibi is one established by Porter's kinship and as such should not be regarded. Can any of you show where you were on any given night unless you were out of your home, without the assistance of your wife or other members of the family? If you are at home every night in the bosom of your family as you should be, your people are the only ones that will be able to alibi for you."

"Gentlemen of the jury, I charge you: it is worse to convict one innocent man of a crime and to bring eternal disgrace and sorrow upon his family than it is to turn ten guilty men free. I repeat, be sure that you have just cause for your opinion, that you know beyond the shadow of a doubt that this is the man before you convict him."

"In spite of the warp and woof of the shroud of evidence gotten up through the zealous efforts of the prosecution and of the most energetic sheriff in the state, you should turn this man loose."

"As Judge Durrett says, you are not trying this man for his illicit relations with the deceased, except as furnishing a motive. He assumed that the defendant ruined this girl. I call on you to get the testimony that shows that it did not fall from the lips of a single witness."

"Why should he kill her? Did not the family know, according to their testimony, that she was in that condition? Didn't they know that he was responsible? Were they not willing, according to their own word, to pay without a cent of expense to him for the maternity care at the Baraca Home? Why should he come in and take the girl away from her home and kill her?"

"He doesn't look and act and talk like a fool. Why in the name of God did he drive his buggy a half a mile away on that night when he might have driven up to the bay stack?"

"Mr. Smith testified in great detail to the finding of buggy tracks. Gentlemen of the jury, did you not hear him say that he followed these tracks, these rubber tire tracks, almost to Miller Springs? And didn't he admit on cross-examination that he had seen automobile tracks on the scene of the supposed crime, too? I ask you, did he follow the automobile tracks? No. Why not?"

"If Mr. Smith had been as careful about following those tracks he might have been in possession of knowledge today that would point to an entirely different conclusion than that which you have been asked to form by the prosecution."

"Didn't old man Hughes say that the lights of an auto going very slowly flashed into his window about 11:45 and that the car was followed by a top buggy, also, going very slowly? Has anybody come forward out of all this multitude to show that the automobile and buggy had nothing to do with that crime? Would an innocent mission have been concealed? Who or what freight was in that buggy or car? Mr. Smith, had you followed that automobile, you might have seen a man who had to stoop over and kiss her when he met her at the hay stack. There have been different witnesses who testified under oath on three occasions that he leaned down and kissed her. They have even said, 'stooped and kissed her.'"

"Gentlemen of the jury, I charge you to weigh this bit of testimony. 'They say that she could not have committed suicide, because they have indicated that she was going away on a trip with this married man, Willie Porter, because her legs were tied up, and because she was so cheerful and so far from being despondent and in such low spirits all the time. Why was she cheerful around people who knew her and understood all about her condition?'"

"Could she not have been fortunate. Gone to her death?"

L. H. Jones for the Prosecution. "When Mr. Hubbard called upon the Delly, it occurred to me that he should have called upon some one with whom he was more familiar. I shall not call upon God, nor seek to rouse your passions in that manner."

"I have nothing to do with the broken-hearted wife. The attorney's belief in the matter has nothing to do with the facts. When I think of that justful man going into that Christian home and casting his lustful eyes upon that pure child, I think of those lines, 'When an angel's arms have embraced me but once, she belongs to the devil of hell.'"

"Gentlemen, the circumstantial evidence in this case points unerringly to the guilt of this man. 'A criminal always leaves some evidence of his crime behind him. You have been presented with plenty of that in this case.' He reiterated testimony as to buggy tracks, Porter's having been seen talking to Emma Staley, and other such details."

"I believe that these rocks before you were tied in her skirts by the baling wire that you have seen produced as evidence. Judge Durrett told you that he believed the loops in the wires held her hands. I believe that she was murdered by the defendant in that lonely wooded stretch of land and that her body was then fixed for the river."

"She left home that night at 11 o'clock. Porter thought that no human eye would witness his meeting with the girl, for he did not know that she had told her family. The mother and sister crouched on lower ground and his figure was silhouetted against the sky, being on an eminence. All men of intelligence know that comparative heights can be discerned much better in this position."

"After talking with Finney Cowan, John Graves and others about the delicate condition of the girl, he left the country, going to Sweetwater. This shows that he was afraid of the consequence of his criminal intimacy."

"After his return he continued relations with her according to his own account until the Bell County fair. Miss Miller testified that she saw a letter placed in the mail box by Miss Staley addressed to the defendant, after Porter's marriage. The postman himself remembers that he put a letter in the United States post office for Willie Porter taken out of the Staley box. The defendant denies getting the letter."

"And now comes the clerk in the drug store, saying that about one month and a half before the disappearance, Willie Porter came to buy certain things of him."

"And now comes Ollie Moore. Mr. Hubbard says that he does not believe anybody with a sound mind will believe this little girl when she says she recognized the defendant. But she is positive that she saw the defendant walking up and down the river bank at Miller Springs on Monday and that the day was Monday before the body was found on Wednesday. For a man who has committed a crime of that nature, that was the natural thing to do."

"Ennis Moore said that he did not stop to hear what the screams meant. That could not but have been long after physics examined in the case."

"You cannot tell when a man is guilty by looking into his countenance."

I never saw a blue-eyed, fair-complexioned man lose his nerve. It takes nerve to commit a crime like that.

"With reference to that asbestos letter: The letter supposed to have been dated October 25 and telling of her condition being all right, is claimed by the defendant to have given him the right to marry as he did. That letter according to Clayborn Porter's testimony was burned before Porter's marriage. Porter's wife read the same letter and burned it after their marriage."

"I believe that this girl was murdered. No shriek could have been heard with the wind blowing as it was that night. Then I think I can hear him say, 'What shall I do with the body?' He finds a piece of baling wire, wraps it around the limbs of the poor child and around the little hands, and then throws it over the bridge, the skirts weighted with the rocks that you have had before you."

Judge Phelps for the Defense.

The burden of Judge Phelps was first the tearing up of weak evidence on the part of the prosecution; the testimony of Leon Archer concerning the sorell mare with white hind feet; the seeing of Willie Porter in town with the girl on Saturday; Des Robinson's testimony; Floyd Jackson's testimony. He defended Pete Porter's actions on the night of the arrest, and then gave the surprise of the morning by showing that deceased could have tied her own legs up and then have jumped off the bridge. He demonstrated that according to the state the body had "drifted against the current." Judge Phelps contended very ably for suicide, saying that he believed the girl had weighted her laundry bag, then had bound her limbs at the edge of the spring and cast herself in the water. This accounted for the position of the body in the river.

F. A. GILDERSLEEVE BACK FROM LONG TRIP

F. A. Gildersleeve has returned from a trip through the North and East, Canada and other points. He is official stenographer of the Associated Ad Clubs of Texas.

While absent Mr. Gildersleeve heard some of the food control argument in the senate at Washington; he reached East St. Louis the day after the terrible race riot, and found this the chief topic of conversation. Mr. Gildersleeve thinks that the importation of negroes to that section caused the riot.

M. K. T. REVIEWS CLAIM MEETING HELD IN WACO

DISCUSSES POSSIBLE ANGLES AT WHICH PREVENTIONS MAY BE MADE.

Two pages of discussion relative to meetings of the Texas Lines Freight Claim Prevention association, the first of which was held at the Raleigh in Waco, April 16 and the second in the gymnasium of the railroad Y. M. C. A. at Parsons, Kan., June 11, are contained in the M. K. & T. employees magazine for July, copies of which have just been received in Waco.

The meetings covered a wide field of railroad activity and were devoted to discussion of transportation failures which result in miscellaneous damage to freight and delay to freight, as well as those elements creating lost packages and the matter of the proper recording of the business transacted by the various departments over the entire railroad.

At both meetings it was decided that thermometers on cabooses would be a valuable addition to the service requirements, enabling train crews to better protect perishables while moving over the railroad, especially since our lines traverse several different climates. It is not uncommon for a train to encounter summer at one end of the railroad and winter on the other, with all sorts of weather in between.

Discussed Brake Problem. Both meetings entered into a very spirited discussion on the proper control of hand brakes and brake chains, which, under the rigors of modern transportation are inclined to deteriorate in efficiency and remain in that condition a certain period of time before corrected. Method and means of promptly checking up this deficiency and correcting it, created the most interesting end of the discussion.

The loss of entire packages is a problem which has secured the best thought of railroad men all over the country and a great deal of value was developed and many ways indicated by which the evil could be brought under better control and as a result of the different points brought out there is no doubt but that the service will be improved greatly from that standpoint.

WOMAN SICK TWO YEARS

Could Do No Work. Now Strong as a Man.

Chicago, Ill.—"For about two years I suffered from a female trouble so I was unable to walk or do any of my own work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and determined to try it. It brought almost immediate relief. My weakness has entirely disappeared and I never had better health. I weigh 165 pounds and am as strong as a man. I think money is well spent which purchases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Jos. O'Bryan, 1755 Newport Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The affirmative loading check was decided by both meetings to be a good thing and is to be extended to as many stations as possible where the condition of freight handling makes the method of checking necessary. The affirmative check calls for a system of knowing exactly who checked and loaded each piece of freight and in what car each piece was loaded.

Day Light Locals. So-called day-light locals was another discussion entered into at both meetings, where suggestions were offered under which our local trains could be run more efficiently from a freight handling standpoint, regardless of the stress of business or fluctuations in the volume of freight to be handled.

The interesting matter of seals and seal records was discussed by both meetings.

There were also discussed methods and means of bringing into practice the various suggestions developed by individual workers over the entire railroad by which our service can be improved and complaints eliminated. The more efficient use of the post card suggestion form was provided for.

Both meetings decided that the records at the smaller stations could be placed in better form by use of the McBee binder system now being used in all the larger offices and this was arranged for.

The rough handling question, which is a very important one today by reason of the large increase of the number of cars in the average railroad train today and the heavier power. This was of interest, especially to engineers, firemen and conductors who have many problems in taking long trains over the railroad.

Both meetings decided that the efficiency of our service will be greatly increased by continuing and extending the practice of agents at the larger loading station periodically riding the local freight trains from their stations to enable them to observe the conditions under which the freight they load must be unloaded at the various destinations.

The matter of moving freight without unnecessary delay involved a great deal of discussion on detailed practices involving the matter of getting cars through the large terminals and the best manner of matching arrivals with departures to avoid yard detention and yard delays.

Live stock traffic, as well as the very large oil traffic now being handled, was likewise given attention.

RED CROSS LECTURES HAVE BEEN RESUMED

With the closing of the campaign for funds to swell the hundred million dollar national budget to the desired amount, the Waco chapter of this organization has resumed its first aid classes and other activities.

Lectures are delivered each Monday and Thursday night by Dr. G. B. Foster and on Tuesday and Friday nights by Dr. L. L. McGlasson. The attendance is very large, and constantly growing, states Chairman W. W. Seley of the organization. Chairman Seley is giving even more time to the Red Cross work than usual, and can always be found by those who want access to him on this work.

OBJECT TO COTTON CLAUSE IN FOOD CONTROL MEASURE

Inclusion of cotton in the government's food control act would have an unfavorable effect on the cotton trade and depress prices, temporarily at least, according to many cotton interests. Many were of the belief that traders would not have the temerity to risk speculation under government supervision. It had been predicted that if government estimate of this year's probable cotton crop proved correct, there was no telling how high prices would go. Planters have been compelled to pay more for food and farm supplies, some of which have been almost impossible to get and higher prices for the cotton. Cotton factories believed it would be a difficult problem for the government to determine a just price because there might be a surplus in one grade and staple and an insufficient supply on another grade. The addition of cotton to the list of commodities to be regulated would probably result in a reduced production, it was said.

DINER CHEF HAS INVENTED A KATY VEGETABLE CHOWDER

Katy Vegetable Chowder is the name of a new dish recently "invented" by Earle Blocker, chef for the Katy for diner No. 2052, according to the statement of local officials. The ingredients as he has prepared it follow:

One pound salt pork, two medium sized onions fried till brown and then drained; add two quarts of soup stock, then add six carrots, four turnips, one stalk of celery and four medium sized potatoes. Boil for thirty minutes. Add one pint of cream or milk. Serve with a dash of paprika and chopped parsley.

Of course this ought to feed a carload, and the chef says reduce proportionately for the family.

HIGHER RATE COMING ON SHINGLE ROOFS

And now comes notice from insurance representatives in Waco, said W. H. Davis Thursday, of a raise in insurance rates on shingle roofs, effective July 15, on new policies.

The old rate on shingle roofs was 15c on the $100. This will affect only policies written after July 15.

WENT DOWN HILL SO FAST WAS ALMOST IN DESPAIR, HE SAYS

TANLAC ENDS TROUBLES OF T & N. O. RY. EMPLOYEE AND HE SAYS HE NOW FEELS TWENTY YEARS YOUNGER.

"I have already gained seven pounds since I began taking this Tanlac and am still gaining at the rate of a half pound a day," said Sam Cook, a well-known mechanic for the Texas & New Orleans railroad, living at 1815 Keene street, Houston, Texas, recently.

"For more than a year," continued Mr. Cook, "I had been suffering with catarrh of the stomach and was going down hill so fast that I was almost in despair. My food would sour soon after eating it and seemed to roll up into my throat, and I would puff up with gas until I was miserable. I had a cough that worried me a great deal, and especially in the mornings, I would cough up quantities of phlegm. I was given to understand that those who examined me that my condition was very serious and was put on a diet of raw eggs and sweet milk. I kept going from bad to worse until I was almost a nervous and physical wreck. I got so weak and lifeless that I felt I could go no longer and asked for a lay off from my work, fearing I might not be able to take up my job again."

"I had heard the boys about the plant talking about Tanlac and some of them said to me, 'Sam, why don't you try Tanlac?' So I did, and you know it has acted almost like a miracle with me. I am just now on my third bottle and my wife is making all my clothes larger so I can wear them. I feel as young and hearty as I did twenty years ago and am gaining in strength and energy rapidly. I'm eating on the place and if my wife didn't yank me out of bed in the mornings I would oversleep myself. Tanlac is simply wonderful and I can't praise it enough for giving me back my health."

Mrs. Cook witnessed her husband's statement and said: "When I heard what Mr. Cook's trouble was called, after he was examined, I was distressed nearly to death. I felt if it was so, he would soon be taken away from me and then what would me and my little children do? But Tanlac soon dispelled all my fear and my husband's wonderful recovery has made me the happiest woman in Houston."

Tanlac is sold in Waco at Morrison's Old Corner Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—Adv.

COTTON BOLLS ALMOST GROWN IN SOUTH TEXAS

Bringing back evidence of the forward character of cotton in Fort Bend county, Texas, District Passenger Agent W. A. Morrow of the Katy railroad Thursday exhibited bolls which were practically grown.

Some of these bolls already were speckled by the sun's rays, and picking will commence there in three weeks is the prediction. Mr. Morrow reported that cotton is well loaded in Fort Bend county with bolls, large and small, with blooms and squares, promising well.

ENGINEERS' ESTIMATES ON BRIDGE WORK SUBMITTED

Partial estimates were submitted Thursday on work done on bridges on South Fifth street, Austin avenue and the river driveway, by the contractors.

The city commission referred these estimates to Street Commissioner Stamp with power to act.

WANT ALLEY IN REAR BUSINESS AREA OPENED

Asking for the opening of an alley between Austin and Franklin and Eighth and Ninth streets, a committee Thursday appeared before the city commission.

The committee was composed of W. G. Lacy, William Abell, Alex Sanger, Pat Hopkins, Mr. Sparks and Mr. Roach. Plans of procedure were discussed, and the matter was referred to Street Commissioner J. P. Stamp to investigate and make a recommendation next Thursday.

PLANNING TO IMPROVE SOUTH WACO STREETS

One or two residents of South Ninth street appeared before the city commission Thursday and asked for re-crowning of that street for several blocks.

It was stated by Street Commissioner J. P. Stamp that Ninth will be re-crowned as desired and other streets in that part of Waco bettered when the material is taken from South Fifth street for the permanent pavement which is to be put down there very soon.
